MALAGA, IDENTITY AND COMMITMENT

The Malaga Festival was born in 1998 to be useful for the Spanish cinema and, today, it has become a space of cultural confluence that integrates a community of almost 550 million people united by a common language and culture. Therefore, our festival had to evolve to adapt to this new reality and be useful to the sector. And so today we are at a film festival 'in Spanish'. An event that not only embraces the geographical aspect -films made in Spain, in all its official languages, and Portugal- but also the production. It embraces films produced or co-produced by Spanish companies, whatever their language of filming, and finally the language, welcoming films from other cinematographies that are spoken in Spanish; from all the countries of Latin America, and those others that have a very large Latin American community. Therefore, for the Malaga Festival, 'in Spanish' it means geography, production, and, especially, language. A new identity that makes us enjoy strong institutional, media, and public support and recognition, having provided the necessary visibility and positioning to an inclusive and global cinema, as it happens with the cinema 'in Spanish'.

The other major strategic project for us is the Industry Zone, MAFIZ, that gathers seven events that promote financing, co-production, distribution, and sales of Spanish-language films, all based on the support and promotion of new Ibero-American audiovisual talent as a cross-cutting objective for this broad industrial area. And this year I would especially like to highlight the Spanish Screenings. Our audiovisual market. Thanks to the budgetary support of the Government, the Ministry of Culture through ICAA, and ICEX, this event adopts a new format to become 'Spanish Screenings XXL. An international market for Spanish audiovisual productions. This project is part of the Recovery, Transformation, and Resilience Plan and the first editition of this Spanish Screenings XXL, our Content Market, will take place within the framework of the Malaga Festival from March 21 to 24. This new format will allow Malaga Festival to achieve its objectives through a greater diversity of content (film, series, new online and offline formats), as well as the creation of new sections.

Also, this year we welcome Costa Rica, our Country of Honor, through a Focus of film projects and screenings that will reveal a cinematography of an unquestionable quality. Meanwhile, in 'Territorio España', we invite you to learn about the film projects of the different Spanish regions. This year the 'Comunitat Valenciana' will contribute with its narrative proposals and audiovisual reality.

Malaga and its Festival, are proud to be direct witnesses of a cinema packed with talent, with a narrative that transforms reality through new voices and contents promoting a society committed towards human and environmental rights.

EVERYTHING THAT GROWS

Todo lo que crece | Clara Obligado

PUBLISHER & RIGHTS HOLDER Páginas de Espuma
WEB https://paginasdeespuma.com

SYNOPSIS
According to Genesis, the first punishment was botanical, and consisted in expelling us from a paradise, from a garden. Since then we have lived in longing. Under this tension between exile and belonging, Clara Obligado invites us, with her hybrid writing, on a walk through nature in which thought and literature, essay and memoir blend. An itinerary through the most untamed and the most subdued spaces that clash and grow within us. From childhood, from the seed, from different parts of the world, a poetic and moving reflection, a hymn to everything that grows.

SYNOPSIS
The Antonio Machado's last days are quite unknown. Villa Amparo, in Rocafort, welcomed the poet in his first exile at the end of 1937. The show takes place in two temporal planes: the past and the present, when an association of republicans is interviewed by a journalist. Although at first the young Julia is reluctant to interview the old republican and Timoteo, who is looking for the bones of his ancestor shot in the reprisals after the Spanish Civil War, little by little, she will open her eyes to facts that will terrify her: the suffering of the families who have not found their relatives.
